

Lightning monitoring at ports and terminals

Modern weather monitoring systems are crucial for protecting shipping ports and terminals. They prevent operational downtime, saving lives and assets from lightning damage.

Effective thunderstorm detection includes:

High detection efficiency of total lightning events

Location accuracy on where lightning happens

Approaching storm detection in terms of speed, direction and intensity

Key lightning data about the type, intensity, duration, frequency and chronology of all strikes in storm